[3] Below 30%: The trading volume is stable and consistent.

Above 70%: The trading volume is extremely erratic (High Volatility).

Over 100%: The volume is swinging by more than the average amount traded, indicating massive "shocks" to the stock.

[4] If the price only moved 0.20 on Tuesday but moved 2.00 on Wednesday, something significant happened during the day, even if the "Close" price didn't change much.
